III. Balzac The Pantheist

Clairvoyance is a fascinating art at all times, but in the case of findings like this, it is more than simply fascinating. It is mindblowing. According to NXXS findings, these stone benches or prayer platforms were already in place by the time the Sacsayhuaman civilization had developed here. Those people may have come from Europe whose ruins still stand there, but more on that at a later time. When findings of this magnitude present themselves, they are placed in a special file of eternal importance in order to be studied more.

The benches are incredibly old. They are from a previous root race. The people who made these platforms were approximately 15 feet tall and were descendents of the giants. Okay folks, unless this finding is proved as a misreading or other inaccuracy the benches are 50 million years old—or older! Yes, that's insane to perceive! There is no doubt about it though, according to the initial clairvoyance. This is the time period leading up to Atlantis and the Aiud artifact may have even been after this in fact. They were from The Destiny. They were scientists and possessed reading and writing. Mind you that the world was very different in those times. This is a high tech civilization who instructed the Atlanteans and other people. They prayed here at the benches and had sex at the site. There was a temple site at this location. They also ate meat. There were vicious animals in those times, but no dinosaurs. They were geniuses who possessed high-powered machinery. Use your astral mind and intuitive faculties to perceive the reality of these findings while you gaze at the image and see for yourself. This is mind boggling. They eventually died out after a very long period of time and then Atlantis began its society.

Sometimes the clairvoyant does a reading without first reading the established viewpoints on occult history. This may be a better approach since it allows for the absence of bias during the reading. Total liberties of interpretation are not being sought here and after all, many many readings line up with the establishment in regards to facts at least, enough of the facts to be corroborative. But what if they do not exactly line up? With this being said, let it be understood that occult history does not always coincide with the established knowledge. Being careful to avoid the uncommon misreading, and also to be swayed by anything but the akashic reality for each site, NXXS/Access the Akashic brings you yet another occult finding from the world vault.

Udayagiri caves in Madhya Pradesh, Northern India were originally from about 4,000 years ago. During those times, this Brahmin Hindu establishment was off-limits to everyone except the officers of the government. Anyone going near the area would be punished severely, according to the clairvoyant reading. They may have even hung someone for this offense. There were 500 soldiers on duty. This place represented the military of the state and the temple was funded by them. They watched all the territories from this location. Although it was somewhat ceremonial of a site originally, that was not its primary function. This was where the administration of the society took place, along with the treasury. According to the reading the people looked Asian and of light-skin in those times.

It is always a good day when the author discovers an occultist among the various authors, artists and world figures. Balzac was such a person. A brief reading about him brought out the knowledge and wisdom that he possessed. He was a pantheist and he was attracted to occult works. He figured out every single thing in his mind without despair. He had a vision. The people didn't actually know him for who he was in life. He had a flow. There was also someone who wrote for him. Balzac is very worthy of being a key player in the NXXS occultism and more in-depth readings about him may be found worthwhile. In the meantime, the author is looking at several other phenomenal things, obscured histories and some very deep topics. ATA is meant as an overview of the research into arcane subjects and metaphysical reality. If you would like to share thoughts, opinions or likewise just send an email to the mail@nxxs.org address as seen above in the title. Unlike the days of old where several clairvoyants, adepts or priests worked alongside each other, the author currently feels a darkness out there now as to the state of occultism since no one has contributed to the research yet. The spiritual rewards are greater than financial ones, if you are working on becoming a clairvoyant. Feel free to work alongside with the author and contribute to the big picture of discovering the real history of the unfoldment of knowledge and wisdom across the aeons of time on our planet and possibly others. In the spirit of Socrates, a dialectic is established so that personal bias does not interfere with Reason in its classical sense.
